Please review the terms of membership, taken from the JGSoB Bylaws

- ① Membership to the Society shall be open to individuals or institutions that support the objectives of the Society, upon written application and payment of prescribed dues. The amount is up to you.
 - ② Membership dues are to be paid annually each January. Any member failing to pay dues prior to Rosh Chodesh Adar shall be dropped from the Society's membership roster.
- A main objective of the Society is to contribute to the genealogical community. To remain a member in good standing you must document, either individually or in partnership, some annual contribution to the world-wide Jewish genealogical community. Members failing to do so shall be dropped from the Society's membership roster after a period of 12 months. Monetary contributions are not to be considered when determining if this requirement has been met. Examples of the range of valid contributions that may be considered include publishing a book (in print or online), webpages, Pages of Testimony, Viewmate responses, images of interest such as tombstone photos, etc.
